OILS

Demco Taltine Odorless Solvent

Our popular multipurpose paint thinner and solvent has the same properties as turpentine coupled with the beneficial removal of harmful aromatic elements. Due to its slow drying characteristics, Taltine is useful in controlling alkyd and oil colours. Ideal for cleaning art tools such as brushes, palette knives and palettes. What is Taltine used for? 1. Diluting oil paint, Taltine makes oil paint more fluid and lighter. It is mainly used for underpainting, base layers, sketches, and colour studies. It helps the paint dry faster and reduces the risk of cracking. It also allows for special effects such as washes, transparencies, and light, airy strokes. 2. Accelerating drying time, Taltine evaporates quickly, which means the paint becomes dry to the touch faster than when using an oil based medium. 3. Cleaning brushes and tools. Unlike acrylic paint, oil paint cannot be cleaned with water. Taltine dissolves the oil and pigments, making it possible to restore your brushes. 17DEM97AL80 Reg. $97.35 | Sale $ 48.69

Williamsburg Oil Paint

Originating from the Williamsburg neighborhood of Brooklyn, Williamsburg now makes over one hundred seventy artist quality oil colors in New Berlin, NY. Each color is milled in small batches to bring out the best qualities of the pigment used. Williamsburg offers a high quality artist oil with a line up of over one hundred forty specially selected oil colors of which most are considered to have excellent lightfastness.

Paints are not homogeneous, as some colors require a very fine grind that results in a rich, smooth paint, while others are best allowed to retain more texture and provide a little more resistance and less gloss.
