Winsor Newton Designers Gouache

Winsor & Newton Designers Gouache is celebrated for its exceptional brilliance, opacity, and strong tinting power. This finely ground, water-based paint is ideal for illustrations created with pen, brush, or airbrush. All Designers Gouache colors seamlessly blend with Winsor & Newton Artists' and Cotman watercolors. For fine art painting, it is best to use watercolor papers. However, for design and illustration projects intended for electronic scanning and reproduction, illustration board or Hot Press watercolor paper is recommended to achieve a flat finish that reproduces beautifully.

WATERCOLORS

M. Graham Watercolours & Gouache

As an essential ingredient in our binding medium, honey contributes to moistness for smooth, easily controlled applications, increased pigment concentrations and freedom from reliance on preservatives. Because of the honey medium, our color resists hardening on the palette, or in the tube. It dilutes easily, often after months of disuse.

Each color has been formulated with pure, Northwest honey for layered application without cracking. Balanced quantities of gum arabic and water are combined with large amounts of pigment to achieve a high degree of flow for strong brush strokes and direct, smooth application without loss of brilliance. Our Gouache is crafted with high performance lightfast pigments. The nature of the each pigment creates variations of opacity. We leave the addition of white to the artist.

Yupo Pads

This synthetic paper made of 100% polypropylene offers a unique alternative to traditional art papers. Waterproof and stain-resistant, it is exceptionally strong, durable and will not buckle or tear. It is acid-free, archival and has a smooth, bright white surface. Originally used for offset printing, it also accommodates silkscreen, embossing, pen & ink, drawing, acrylic painting and aqueous techniques. As a watercolor paper, it has the advantage of being non-absorbent so colors lie on top of its surface producing brilliant, vibrant effects. Yupo requires no soaking, stretching, or taping flat.

ACRYLICS

Liquitex Acrylics & Mediums

All Liquitex products are formulated by a unique team of chemists and artists: chemists with a wide array of skills in resin technologies and artists who help us to stay focused on the working properties. This combinations allows us to make the most versatile ranges of intense, highly loaded, permanent colors possible. Liquitex is the only acrylic brand to offer three uniquely different ranges of professional color to suit the needs of the artist. That in mind, range-specific handling characteristics are established so that every Liquitex paint feels just right - never too sticky or slippery. The low-odor acrylic resin base represents the latest in acrylic resin technology, offering increased open time and producing colors of great clarity with very low wet-to-dry value shift. The paint films are highly flexible, durable, non-yellowing, UV resistant, water-resistant and pH neutral when dry. All Liquitex Professional Colors can be intermixed with each other and as well as all Liquitex Mediums!

FW Acrylic Ink

The major development of inks in recent years has been the increasing use of pigments and acrylic resins. The differences between the dye based inks and the pigmented inks were slight reduction in colour intensity, but much improved resistance to fading. FW Artists' Ink is an acrylic based pigmented water resistant ink in a range of 38 colours, all of which have either a 3 or 4 star rating for permanence.

Faber Castell Pitt Markers & Sets

Faber-Castell has now brought together all of the advantages of drawing in Indian ink in a modern and uncomplicated disposable pen – the PITT artist pen. The high-quality brush point will continue to function even when bent, and will not break under these conditions. The light colours are transparent, and thus well suited to varnishing techniques, while the dark colours have good covering qualities. PITT artist pens have unsurpassed light-fastness, and the individual colours are marked with an asterisk-based code.
